A photograph of a modern SPA interior. The space is a long, narrow hallway with a light-colored stone tile floor. On the right side, there is a long wooden bench with several rectangular stone sinks integrated into it. The walls are covered in a dark, textured material that looks like small, irregular stones or shells. In the background, there is a glass-enclosed area, possibly a shower or a hot tub, and a small table with a potted plant. The lighting is soft and ambient, creating a relaxing atmosphere.
